Preface

When I asked Dr. Joseph D. Eggleston, in April 1950, which County I should do next, his emphatic reply was, "Charlotte, by all means. It is an untouched county."

So, April 1951 found me in Charlotte Court House, copying marriages. And I am glad, because now I know where I am going when I retire. Straight to Charlotte.

To Charlotte where purple finches by the dozen frolic in the grass, (I had never before seen more than one at a time); where country-cousin dandelions and city-cousin violets grow together all along the road side; where there are unbelievable cascades of molten gold (forsythia, to you) and mammoth bouquets of rose, (could be peach trees); great corsages of frosty pink which will, no doubt, have crab apples come summer.

Charlotte, where no trains or busses run and where the grocery store of red brick has, so help me, four tall white columns supporting a classic Greek pediment. Where no whistles blow and there is no town clock to strike. But where there is plenty of peace and quiet, friendliness and charm.

This is where Patrick Henry lived and died and lies buried at "Red Hill". This is where John Randolph lived and died at "Roanoke": where these two brilliant men had their famous debate on States Rights on that March day so long ago in 1799.

In 1781 when General Green retreated through North Carolina, pursued by Cornwallis, crossed the Dan River, halted and called for reinforcements, the Charlotte Militia turned out en masse.

The names of the officers of Charlotte Militia are worthy of lasting remembrance. They were: Col. Thomas Read, Lt. Col. Joel Watkins, Lt. Col. Josiah Morton: Captains William Morton, James Morton, Gideon Spencer, Richard Gaines, Jr., William Jameson, White, Barksdale, Holloway and Wallace. Other distinguished officers included Col. Clement Carrington.

Six companies of Charlotte infantry were in Pickett's Division that made the celebrated charge at Gettysburg, which, for sheer bravery has no equal in history.

Charlotte County, formed in 1764 from Lunenburg (Hening VIII 41 and Journal of the House of Burgesses 27 Nov. 1764) was named for the young queen of George III, the Princesses Charlotte Sophia of Mecklenberg. (Long's Virginia County Names p 54: Robinson p 47). The first clerk was Samuel Cobbs and the first sheriff Thomas Read, they having taken the oath 1 December 1764. Both gentlemen held their commissions from the Honorable Thomas Nelson, Secretary of the Colony.

The first Court was held 4 March 1765, with the following Gentlemen Justices present: James Hunt, David Caldwell, Thomas Spencer, Thomas Bedford, Elisha White, Joseph Morton and John White.

The first act of the Court was to "set and state the prices of Liquors, Diet, Lodging and Provinder". West Indian Rum was 10 shillings a gallon, New England rum only 6. Good Virginia "cyder" 4 pence a quart, apple brandy 6 shillings a gallon, breakfast 8 pence, oats 4 pence a gallon, lodging "with clean sheets" 6 pence.

The first members of the House of Burgesses from Charlotte were Paul Carrington and Clement Read (Stanard's Colonial Virginia Register p 171). Probably no man gave more years of his life to the service of County and State than did Paul Carrington. For forty-two years he held public trust, twenty-nine of them in the judiciary department.

I could go on and on, but this is supposed to be a book of the marriage bonds and ministers' returns of Charlotte County.

Turn just one more page!

Caution!

Please look for all spellings of a name viz.: Hamblett - Hamlett; Hoard - Hord; Stoe - Stowe; Hailey - Haley; Childress - Childray; Gankins - Ginkins; Wilmouth - Wilmutt - Wilmot; Laine - Lane; Fowlks - Fulks; Brooke - Brooks. Biggs and Diggs got themselves mixed up, as did Reverley and Beverley. Such variations in spelling keep a genealogist on the alert to note and cross index different interpretations of what is obviously the same name.

No liberties with spelling have been taken except in the instance of nicknames. Where Suckey was given on the bond and Susanna appears in the ministers' returns I have used the correct name, Susanna. So with Anne and Nancy; Martha and Patsey.

Most of the discrepancies between the bonds and ministers' returns are in the dates. But when we realize the ministers often made their returns to the County Court from memory and months after the wedding, it is surprising that they are as accurate as we find them.

There is a tragic break in Charlotte County Marriage Bonds between 1815 and 1850. Although it made this volume larger than any of my others, I have given you all of the bonds up to and including 1815, and of course the ministers' returns to the same period.
